Unhuman history

By bob

This book is an encyclopedia of the horrible crimes performed by Germans on the Polish people, about a robbery of the museums, art collections and private properties, about destroying all monuments, palaces, churches, about unhuman Germans.

Subtitle Should Be: Horrors Imposed On Poland from Oct, 1939 to Jun, 1941

By William H. Szych

This is very damaging evidence to any who would maintain the world did not realize what the Germans were doing to Poland which they invaded and brutally occupied beginning in Oct, 1939.

In the book's preface, a single page is the most accurate assessment of what we clearly know now was happening in Poland (even prior to the genocide against Polish Jews) "...mass murder practiced by the Germans a phenomenon to which there is no parallel in the history of mankind". This was written and documented in the "Black Book" in 1942 covering the period up to June, 1941 (at which time they documented more than 400,000 cases of deliberate killings of Poles and Polish Jews. In other words, the world knew exactly what was happening in Poland...either that or they didn't know how to read. By the way, that figure was very close to the total number of US wartime KIA's in WWII.

More from the preface: "The names and circumstances of each of these executions are known. The average for the past two months is 1,576 a day, and yet the Polish Prime Minister, General Sikorski, on his arrival in America in April, 1941, said: 'I am not the representative of a suffering Poland, but I am the representative of a Poland that fights.' The twelve divisions used by the Germans solely for the purpose of keeping down Polish resistance are one section of the Polish front; the 200,000 Polish trainees in Russia, 10,000 Polish flyers in England, 60,000 Polish soldiers in the Near East, 30,000 Poles in Scotland, and the Polish Marine form the other elements of the same Polish front."

Chapter after chapter, the horrors are revealed. In Part III, The Persecution of the Jews and the Ghettos, page 252 is a telling statement:

Quote: The "New Order" which is being inflicted on Poland, and indeed on the whole of the European Continent, will be new mainly to those who have an inadequate knowledge of the Dark Ages. As far as the Jews are concerned, it is the ancient persecution writ large. As one reads that the Jews shall wear a distinguishing garb, that they will have no intercourse with the outside world, that they must not on certain occasions show themselves in the streets, that they must live in separate quarters of the towns; this will give very much the impression of the Nazi order in Poland, yet it is German law dispensed in the thirteenth century, in the statutes called Sachsenspiegel and Schwabenspiegel. The Jews were then, in the Royal phrase, "the servants of our treasury," chattel in the words of King Charles IV, "with which We, in the plenitude of Our Power, can deal as We please." From these conceptions it does not seem to be a far cry to the Nazi doctrine that "The Jew is not a human being at all." It is on these principles, hailing as they do from the darkest of the Dark Ages, that the Nazi "order" in Poland is built up. End Quote

The book's final sentence in its conclusion is also noteworthy:

"Consequently, it is not Hitler alone who is responsible for all the many crimes the Germans have committed in the course of the present war against Right, Justice, and humanity, but millions of his followers."

But the reality is that the Black Book of Poland would become much blacker. At the time it was written, the murder of over 23,000 Polish officers and officials by the Soviet Union was not known. It was not only Germany imposing horrors from the beginning of WWII, it was also their WWII allies and co-conspirators and mass-murders (see Katyn forest massacre and deportation/enslavement of over a million Poles to Siberia).

Further deprivations, the ultimate horror of what is now called "the Holocaust" or Shoah, were yet to come. As were the deliberately stealing of blond hair, blue eyed Polish children, sent away to be Germanized and many of who would never see their mothers again.

This may sound like some horrible, horrible science fiction novel to those who are new to the subject area, and mainly the young who study it for the first time. But all this happened in Poland. It is indeed a Black Book, but the title doesn't even begin to hint at what the blackness was, who committed it, and who fought against it.

It is a very, very important testimony to what really happened to Poland up until 1941. Then, unbelievably, things got worse. And at the end of it, Poland was betrayed and given up to the mass murderer Stalin. A Black Book not of Poland, a Black Book Brought to You By Germany and By The Soviet Union.

Review

By Stephen Campbell

An outstanding book! I am surprised that I have not seen this book referenced in the footnotes of books about the Holocaust. What happened during World War II in Poland is not often discussed in the literature theof war. Especially in America.

Poland lost one out every five of its citizens as a direct result of World War II. Only the Soviet Union had a higher casualty rate. Unlike the Soviet Union the Polish people have continued to reproduce. Their demographics will make them the envy of Europe in ten years.

Who should purchase this book? Anyone interested in the Holocaust or those of Polish descent who wish to know more of the country their parents fled. The book is extremely detailed in its naming of towns, dates of atrocities, and the names of the victims. Poland was the laboratory of the einsatzgruppen. Here the death squads that would follow the invasion of the Soviet Union perfected the techniques that would be used against those who fell under the rule of the Reich.

The photos are moving. Perhaps a bit graphic. I was surprised by the open discussion of the German rape of Polish women. Unusual for a book I thought that was written so early in the war. Polands prosecution of Germans for War Crimes certainly was more vigourous than the Allies. A good book that should be scanned and put in the Public Domain for downloading.
